FRIENDS OF CORNWALL'S ANCIENT SITES

FOCAS is the support group for the ancient sites of Cornwall. Cornwall has one of the most intensive prehistoric landscapes of Britain, and there are probably more sites in such a small area than almost anywhere else in Europe. These sites are much visited, and are always under pressure from people and environmental changes. The overall management of these sites is the responsibility of a number of different organisations, but voluntary help and support is always much needed. If you enjoy, appreciate and care for those sites, then please consider helping to support them by joining FOCAS which takes a direct interest in the state of the sites and helps to co-ordinate practical work to look after them.

Annual Membership Waged - £8

Unwaged - £5

Couples - £12

What you get in return:

- Regular Newsletters giving details of what has been happening at the sites that you have been helping with your subscription.
- Free guided walks and talks about the sites with local archaeologists and researchers.
- Local contacts to whom you can talk about the sites and express any concerns or ideas you may have for improvements.
